FIVE OF THE
MOST Romantic
DESTINATIONS

With Valentine's Day right around the corner, we're feeling lovestruck here at ROL Cruise. With that in mind, here are five of the world's most romantic destinations, right in time for the most romantic day of year...

♥ Bora Bora, French Polynesia

The mere mention of Bora Bora is enough to conjure images of couples strolling hand in hand across untouched white sands, lapped by azure seas. It's not difficult to romanticise this idyllic island and it should come as no surprise that it is an internationally acclaimed honeymoon destination. Mount Otemanu presides over the paradise island and can be found decorated by blossoming hibiscus, whilst tropical-coloured fish can be discovered in the coral gardens. Bora Bora could easily be defined as the crème de la crème of romantic destinations across the world, and if you're seeking a life-changing romantic holiday, then turn to pages 46-47 for your chance to witness this ethereal wonderland in 6★ luxury.

♥ Bordeaux, France

If you enjoy sharing a bottle of wine with a loved one, then there is surely no better place to do so than in the wine capital of the world - Bordeaux. With half of the city designated a UNESCO World Heritage site, you are guaranteed exceptional sights as you wander the streets: the elegant Place de la Bourse is regal in its presence; the River Garonne's silky-smooth waters are ideal for lounging on a riverside terrace and, of course, the gastronomy and fine wines on offer are second-to-none. Not only this, but there are many tours on offer to tempt you into trying some of Bordeaux's finest wines - all guaranteed to get you in the mood for love. Scenic's all-inclusive river cruise launch promotion on pages 26-27 can take you to Beautiful Bordeaux in 5★ luxury, should you wish to indulge your heart and soul.

♥ Venice, Italy

British poet Arthur Symons once said that, "A realist, in Venice, would become a romantic by mere faithfulness to what he saw before him." Many destinations across the world are known for tugging on our heartstrings - but none so much as Venice. The magnetism of a floating, car-less island should be enough to awaken our inner romantic on its own, but pair that with the charming gondola rides available, the many candlelit tables up and down the canal and the endless opportunities to attend a moving opera performance, and you're guaranteed to feel romantic, however long you spend here. If, like Arthur Symons suggested, you'd like to become a romantic, then Venice should be at the top of your list to visit.

♥ Buenos Aires, Argentina

Considered by many to be the Paris of South America, Buenos Aires isn't shy in expressing its love. The Argentinian capital is jam-packed with breathtakingly romantic sights such as Puerto Madero and the city's exquisite park, Rosedal, which is connected by well-manicured paths and a picturesque lake, where you can hire a paddle-boat for some alone time with your loved one, should you wish. To spice up your holiday, then look no further - as the birthplace of the Tango, Buenos Aires is also home to many tango halls where you can experience the dance of love for yourself. Turn to pages 16-17 to discover Buenos Aires with iconic Cunard.

♥ Paris, France

No list of romantic destinations would be complete without the City of Love itself, Paris. Everywhere that you look in this resplendent city, you will likely witness couples reclined in parks or sharing a platter of French delicacies, strolling along the Seine arm in arm or deep in conversation against a back-drop of bustling restaurants. The ultimate monument for breathtaking views, ascending the Eiffel Tower is one of the most iconic romantic experiences available in Paris and has been the location for many a proposal. For art and culture, visit the Louvre and Musée d'Orsay where you can view works by Romantic painter Delacroix. For fine cuisine, any restaurant with a view of the Eiffel Tower is a sure bet for enticing your taste buds and you'll likely find that you'll fall in love over the top of a glass of wine or two.

Jane ARCHER

Jane Archer is one of the UK's leading cruise journalists and the Daily Telegraph Travel's cruise expert. She has been sharing her experiences with Blue Horizons' readers for ten years.

WHY YOU SHOULD GO WILD FOR A CRUISE IN SOUTH AFRICA

A couple of years ago a friend revealed she and her husband were planning a safari adventure in South Africa so naturally I asked (because I am always trying to convert people to the cause) why they didn't combine it with a cruise. She thought I was joking.

I really wasn't. We were talking about Africa but there are all sorts of wildlife cruises - around the Galápagos Islands, in the Seychelles, in Costa Rica and even on Silversea's remote cruises in the Russian Far East.

But back to South Africa. Our conversation coincidentally took place just after my own whistle-stop cruise-safari - a great trip if not without incident (the funniest of which had to be when the crew hit a water hydrant on the quay in Cape Town and all those of us expecting prime views during the sail away got soaked by a geyser instead!) that opened up a whole new world for me.

I had a day in Cape Town, which was enough to see a little of the city and get a glimpse of Table Mountain and Robben Island, where Nelson Mandela was imprisoned for 27 years.

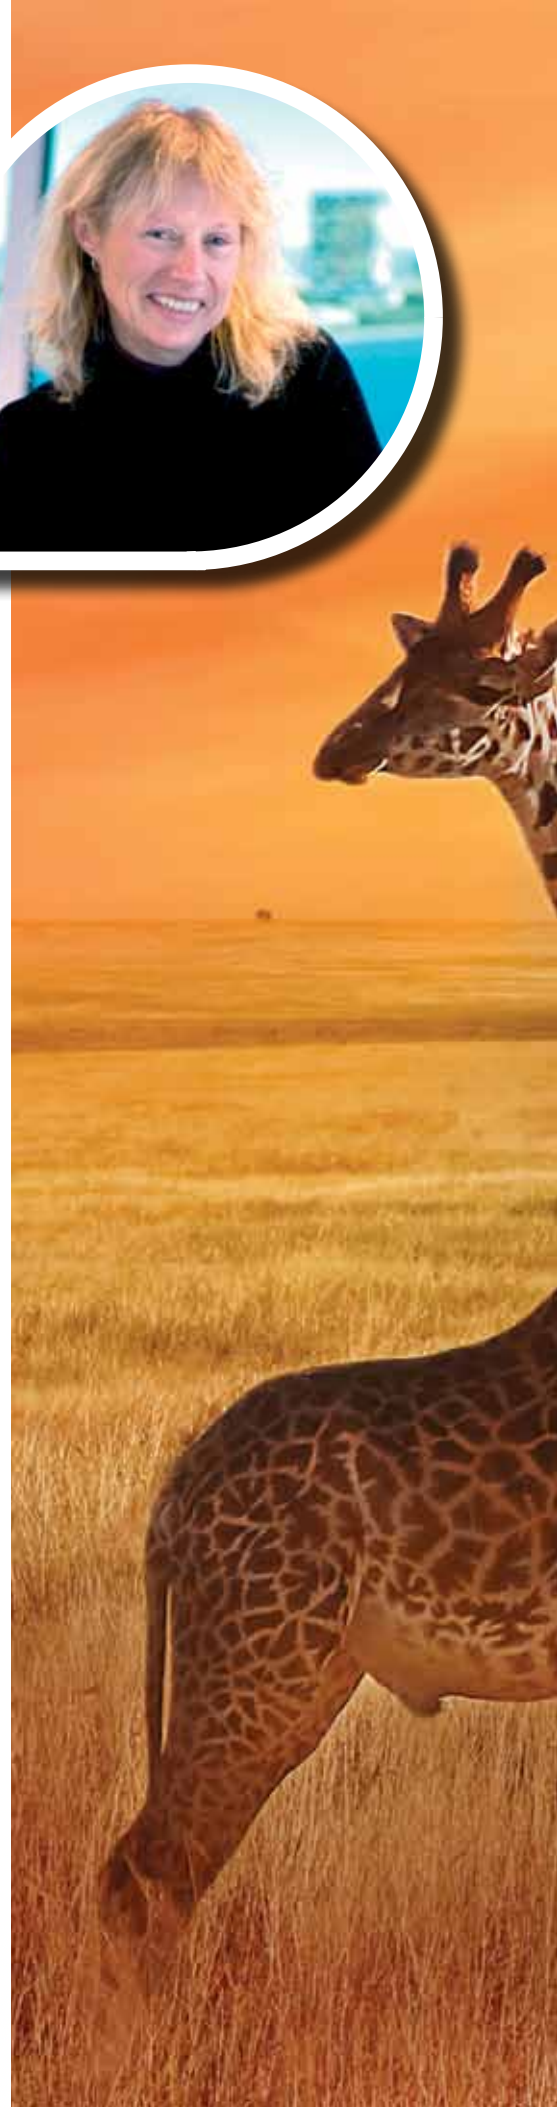

In Port Elizabeth, I went to one of the townships and a local school to see what life is like and hear what they are trying to do to improve education for the children. Many of us found it an emotional experience. Others joined a tour to Addo Elephant Park and came back with wonderful stories of all the wildlife they had seen.

Next stop was Richards Bay, where we headed off to Hluhluwe Game Reserve in search of elephants, rhinos, buffalos, lions and leopards. It was a brilliant excursion but sadly my last day on safari - and on the cruise - as I had to head to Durban for a flight back to London.

It was a sweet but all too short introduction to South Africa, which explains why I have been eyeing up Azamara Club Cruises®' new country-intensive South Africa cruise-safaris.

There are five 10-night voyages at the start and end of next year, all sailing from Cape Town to Port Elizabeth, Richards Bay, Durban and East London and including two days on board back in Cape Town. ▶

HEAD OFF TO EASTER ISLAND

I do love a little mystery and intrigue. And surely nothing is quite so mysterious and intriguing as the statues on Easter Island. It's one of the most remote inhabited islands in the world (the nearest continent is South America, more than 2,000 miles away) and home to monumental statues carved more than 700 years ago by the Rapa Nui people.

There are almost 900 statues, called moia, which is extraordinary when you consider they didn't have computers, cranes or any of the other modern-day equipment to build them. So how did they do it? And just as important, why did they do it? What did they represent?

According to anthropologists, it was all to do with the spirits of the ancient Polynesians' ancestors. It was not by accident that the statues, which have disproportionately large heads, elongated noses and deep-set eye sockets, mostly faced into the island. They were watching and protecting the people.

And that's all I'm saying. If you want to know more, ROL Cruise is offering a splendid Regent Seven Seas Cruises® voyage that combines a visit to Easter Island with the gorgeous South Pacific in 2020. You'll find more details elsewhere in this issue.

► In 2021, they're extending the trip to 12 nights by adding a call into Maputo in Mozambique.

There's more about these cruises in this issue of Blue Horizons but I can tell you they will be big game heaven.

There are 4x4 jeep safaris looking out for lions, tigers, giraffes, zebras, rhinos, elephants and more in game reserves near Port Elizabeth and Durban. You can go cruising in search of hippos and crocodiles in the wetlands near Richards Bay, and even join two and three-night trips to Kruger National Park and Shamwari Private Game Reserve, where you'll stay in lodges and tented camps and be hosted on jeep safaris every day.

Back in Cape Town, there'll be plenty of time to see the city, take the cable car to the top of Table Mountain, the ferry to Robben Island, and taste local tipples in the winelands and local food in the Stellenbosch. Azamara even offers an evening of jazz in musicians' homes and local clubs, and if time allows, you can add five-night pre or post-cruise tours that include three nights in Kapama Game Reserve with game drives in search of the Big Five.

I met up with Azamara's president and CEO Larry Pimentel when he was in London in January and he told me the South Africa cruises are flying off the shelves. I, for one, am not surprised. You have been warned!

SECRETS OF THE Sacred Valley

A DESTINATION IN FOCUS

A continent as varied as it is vibrant, South America has captivated explorers for centuries. Home to myths and legends beyond count, the same enigmas that intrigued early European explorers are still evident today in some of the world's most iconic heritage sites.

Deep in the heart of Peru, the Sacred Valley of the Incas is a breathtaking landscape, offering a glimpse into the ancient world of the Incas. Nestled behind the buzzing lights of Cuzco, the valley leads you past ancient terraces, towns and mines to the lost Inca citadel of Machu Picchu.

It is a journey that immerses you in Inca culture, both ancient and modern, from the ruins of Pisac to the living Inca town of Ollantaytambo and plentiful weaving villages, the valley is brimming with the heritage of a lost world.

Machu Picchu

The lost Inca citadel of Machu Picchu is undoubtedly one of the world's most famous sites. Its past is shrouded in mystery, having been abandoned just over 100 years after it was built in the 15th century. Most Inca cities were destroyed by the Spanish conquest, however, Machu Picchu was hidden from view and never found.

The site has been the focus of discussion among historians and archaeologists since its rediscovery in 1911 by the American explorer Hiram Bingham. It sits at 2,430 metres above sea level, and was built using stones that weigh approximately 50 tonnes. For the intrepid, it's a four day trek to Machu Picchu, or, there's a handy train.

Perhaps it is the endearing and, indeed, enduring mystery of Machu Picchu that has secured its place amongst the pantheon of archaeological finds. Each visitor faces the same challenge - to marvel at the citadel, its lack of mortar and forsaken buildings, its ceremonial isolation, and wonder for what reason it was created, and for what reason abandoned.

Your Exclusive ROL Cruise Signature Experience

KUZUKO LODGE & ADDO ELEPHANT NATIONAL PARK

Welcome to Africa, a place with a strong cultural heritage, natural beauty, one-of-a-kind wildlife, exquisite coastline and a few hidden secrets. Vast, wild and exciting, Africa offers visitors some of the best wildlife spotting in the world. Discover, experience and explore a world of diversity in one park. Now the third largest national park in South Africa, Addo Elephant National Park has expanded to conserve a wide range of biodiversity, landscapes, fauna and flora, not to mention the most concentrated elephant population in Africa.

Addo Elephant National Park

Private Dining at Kuzuko Lodge

Game Drive

ADDO ELEPHANT NATIONAL PARK

Among the range of wildlife living in the park are Africa's 'Big 5': lion, elephant, buffalo, Black rhino and leopard. So, you've a good chance of ticking off your 'Big 5' checklist without leaving the park boundary. Elephant sightings are all but guaranteed, with populations in the park growing from just 11 in 1931 to over 600 today. Lion and Spotted hyena were introduced relatively recently but are thriving. Cape buffalo, numbering over 400, are being seen more often during the day despite being predominantly nocturnal. Endangered black rhino are harder to find, as is the secretive leopard, but with the help of a guide you may be lucky.

The park is also host to Cape mountain and Burchell's zebra, several antelope species including eland, kudu and bushbuck, warthogs, hippo wallowing in the Sundays River and the largest population of flightless dung beetles in the world.

KUZUKO LODGE

Also known as the "Place of Glory", Kuzuko Lodge is built high upon a hill in a private section of the northern part of the Addo Elephant National Park, offering awe-inspiring views of a 'Big 5' reserve. It is here where breathtaking views from your private veranda are complemented by luxurious chalets and warm, attentive service. The lodge is a traditional, solidly constructed property with 24 free-standing, thatch chalets.

The comfortably furnished chalets are African themed, and provide private decks and spectacular bush views. The main lodge's welcoming spaces include a lounge, bar and dining area with incredible views. Meals can also be enjoyed settled around a fire in the boma. Unwind in the pool or wellness centre between morning and afternoon wildlife-viewing drives or perhaps visit the habituated cheetahs.

GAME DRIVES

You will experience, learn and enjoy the very best that African wildlife viewing can offer and seeing South Africa's 'Big 5' here is a real possibility. Game drives take place as the sun rises, during the afternoon and as the sun sets. With experienced guides you are sure to track and point out the many species of game that roam the Kuzuko Reserve.

With nocturnal animals out and about, sunrise and sunset drives offer a very different view of the wild.

Dependent on the time of your game drive, you can enjoy a complimentary cup of tea or coffee with home-made rusks, a snack and local beverage. Bottled water is complimentary with morning and afternoon drives. Plus, enjoy bird watching and a Bushman Painting exploration walk in between your game drives.

James Martin's Scotch Egg

With Homemade Vegetable Crisps

P&O Cruises take their gastronomic fare to the next level with their 'Food Heroes' experience, available on board select sailings. One of the nation's favourite chefs, James Martin has been a popular cookery host on a variety of television programmes and P&O Cruises' Britannia is home to his own inspired Cookery Club, where guests can learn a range of skills. One such dish that you might hope to create is James Martin's Scotch Egg with Homemade Vegetable Crisps. But why not try the recipe before you join the class so that you can wow James with your culinary skills?

Ingredients (serves four)

- 6 medium eggs
- 400g skinless Lincolnshire sausages
- 50g plain flour, seasoned with salt and black pepper
- 100g fresh breadcrumbs
- 1 large sweet potato, peeled and finely sliced
- 2 medium potatoes, peeled and finely sliced
- 2 raw beetroots, finely sliced
- 2 carrots, finely sliced
- 1 jar of piccalilli, to serve

Method

1. Heat a deep-fat fryer to 160°C/320°F.
2. Put four of the eggs into a pan of boiling water and simmer for five minutes until they are soft-boiled. Drain and place in a bowl of iced water for 10 minutes until cold. Crack the shells, then peel. Crack the remaining two eggs into a bowl and beat lightly.

3. Divide the sausage meat into four equal portions and wrap each piece around a soft-boiled egg, pressing gently but firmly to ensure the meat covers the egg completely. Roll first in the seasoned flour, then in the beaten egg and finally in the breadcrumbs. Set aside in the fridge for 30 minutes to chill, then reshape to ensure the meat clings tightly around the egg.
4. Drop them into the deep-fat fryer and cook for seven to eight minutes until golden and the meat is cooked through. Drain on kitchen paper and set aside while you cook the crisps.
5. Drop the sliced vegetables into the fryer in batches and cook for two to three minutes until cooked through and golden. Drain on kitchen paper and season with salt and pepper.
6. Cut the Scotch Eggs in half and serve with some piccalilli and the vegetable crisps.
