A present for the Coleys

One of our Ambassadors, Jenny, is also an artist and recently sent us a copy of this beautiful piece she finished whilst on board Boudicca. It depicts the stunning Chilean Fjords, captured as the ship sailed between Punta Arenas and Laguna San Rafael.

Also on this voyage were Mr & Mrs Coley, regular ROL Cruise customers who were celebrating their Diamond Wedding Anniversary. They commented on Jenny's masterpiece as they passed by the ROL hospitality desk and as a special gift to the happy couple celebrating 60 years together, she decided to send the painting to their Room for them to keep. They were absolutely thrilled and said they will frame it and hang it in their lounge.

They've since invited Jenny & Brian to their anniversary celebrations. Undoubtedly, this was a cruise Mr & Mrs Coley will never forget, thanks to Jenny & Brian, as well as Fred. Olsen's fabulous staff.

Congratulations from all at ROL Cruise on an incredible milestone!

Fred.Olsen Cruise Lines GRAND VOYAGERS RETURN

In August 2016's edition of Blue Horizons, we announced the winners of our 'Win a Grand Voyage' competition. The cruise was a 77 night South American circumnavigation on board Boudicca. Derek & Ann have recently returned and sent us the following email:

“ We are home after a wonderful circumnavigation of South America. We introduced ourselves to your representatives during the first week and then received an invitation to the ROL cocktail party.

Jenny is a very good artist and Brian never seemed to stop. We did a forest walk with both. They are both a credit to the company: they always had time to listen and resolve passengers' problems. We hope to see them again, perhaps on another cruise one day. Thank you ROL Cruise once again for the generous gift.”

ROL CRUISE RESERVATIONS WIN WITH...

We are delighted to announce that four members of our Reservations Team were winners with Celebrity Cruises® last month. We had two winners in the top 10 'Top UK Sellers' category: Leona Singh & Gerald Buck. John Hull also won the 'Top Growth' award, while Stacy Day was placed in the top 15 in the UK and received special recognition for her contribution. Ruth Gardiner (Strategic Account Manager, Celebrity Cruises®) and a butler came to our offices to present the team with their respective awards. When booking your Celebrity Cruises® voyage with the experts at ROL Cruise, rest assured, your booking is in safe hands.

Cruise News:

MARITIME MEMORIES

with Nigel Lingard
(Non-Executive Director, ROL Cruise)

I'M OFTEN ASKED ABOUT MY "FAVOURITE DESTINATION", AND HAVE TO SAY THAT GIVING AN ANSWER GETS MORE DIFFICULT WITH EVERY PASSING YEAR! AS THE PAGES OF THIS EDITION CLEARLY DEMONSTRATE, THERE'S SCARCELY A COASTLINE ON THE PLANET THAT DOESN'T HAVE A CRUISE SHIP SAILING BY... AND RIVER SHIPS ARE REACHING DEEP INTO THE HEART OF ALL CONTINENTS.

This is giving us an endless choices of new destinations, which is a wonderful dilemma but does create a lot of memories to recall! We're quite old-fashioned, still printing photos and filling albums with pictures, entrance tickets, receipts and other memorabilia – there's something tangible about poring over this stuff that seems to me to be far more fun than a computer screen.

One common factor about most of the oft-quoted bucket list favourites is that so many feature on World Cruises or Grand Voyages. We have friends who have managed the full three to four months all the way round, but to date we have just dived in and out for sectors – the logistics of organising care for the menagerie still defeat us! When I was at Fred. Olsen our world cruise planning concerns were the supply chain, flying containers of British-suited victuals to remote countries, and the crew change-overs, with complex visa rules and travel arrangements. Now we just have to persuade our neighbours to look after the geese!!

Joking aside, these long voyages have opened up so many new travel opportunities, enabling us to see new vistas each day without having to continually unpack and repack. Our South Pacific voyage from Sydney to Tahiti a few years back took us to places so exotic that the young me could never have dreamed I would one day walk those tropical shores. (See pages 10-11 for Arcadia's world cruise or join Black Watch on pages 22-23).

The northern Pacific Ocean has recently been seeing the benefits of more ships operating Far East itineraries. Back in 1982 I was involved in setting up the first cruises to mainland China, with Salen Lindblad Cruising using the "Yao Hua", a converted cargo-liner carrying less than 100 passengers – just 35 years on we see dozens of ships not just sailing to the Orient, but actually based there.

Some vessels operate long voyages across the North Pacific, including sailings connecting Asia with North America via such remote outposts as the Aleutian Islands – now that's one to impress your friends over dinner! (See pages 4-5 – Azamara Quest's maiden voyage from Japan to Alaska).

Bon voyage!

THESE LONG VOYAGES HAVE OPENED UP SO MANY NEW TRAVEL OPPORTUNITIES

A Life Well Travelled

Diary of a Tour Ambassador

In this nine-part series, our Tour Ambassador, Gillian Lowes, describes what it's like to have - in her own words - "the best job in the world".

Gillian Lowes
ROL Cruise Ambassador

Over 200 guests had booked cruises with us that would stop off at Monaco and included a ticket for the famous race in May. Once my colleagues and I had helped our guests settle into their seats, I found myself sitting alongside them watching the 2015, 73rd annual event. And not just from the fan-zone or the cheap seats at the back, but in the main 'T' stand. I'm facing the pit stop area, directly opposite Lewis Hamilton's pit with his name blazoned boldly on top of the entrance.

I get a glimpse of the man himself, plus various other stars among the throng of F1 big cheeses and the frenzied media. What an amazing experience to be sat at the heart of one of the most prestigious sporting events in the world. I'm not a huge sports fan but I felt such a wave of excitement and joy that I was lucky enough to experience this through my job. Of all my perks working in the travel industry, this one ranked pretty high.

When it has seemed that it just can't get any better in terms of the destinations I am sent to, I'm often surprised. Let's go back to my first assignment - Los Angeles, for a week in March of 2014.

I'd been to LA before but only on holiday and in transit. My colleague and I were collecting passengers from the airport to take them to their hotel for a short pre-cruise stay. It hit me where I was working when we passed the Hollywood sign on the transfer. I wasn't guiding the transfer but I felt like I needed to share my excitement with the guests and stood up to point it out to all of them. By the reaction, I could tell many of them were equally as delighted as I was. I guided transfers for many years when I worked as a holiday rep in Europe, but as lovely as Palma Cathedral and the Costa del Sol beaches are, they never quite had the same wow factor as the Hollywood Hills did.

Part Two: The Monaco Grand Prix

Then there was the second time I remember feeling wowed by my place of work that week. We left the Sheraton Downtown hotel after our duties and headed for dinner. I mean, going out for dinner in downtown LA after work! Don't laugh, but I felt like a Kardashian sister. Something my 13-year-old, small rural-Northumberland town based self only used to daydream about.

About Gillian

ALL THAT GLITTERS

isn't always luxury

Ultra-luxury cruise ships are like London buses. Not in looks or style, of course, but you wait ages for one and then several come at once.

Not only have three launched since last summer – Seven Seas Explorer® last July, Seabourn Encore in January and Silver Muse in April – but having kept us waiting almost eight years for one new ship (hard to believe but Silver Spirit launched back in December 2009), Silversea is building another three.

Silversea chairman Manfredi Lefebvre d'Ovidio is so impressed with Silver Muse that the next three will be just like her, realising his father's vision of having a fleet of 12 Silversea ships. If all goes to plan, the next will enter service in 2020, with the others following over the next couple of years.

He has even been inspired to set aside a cool $170 million for the 'muse-ification' of Silversea's other ships. Silver Explorer was earmarked to be the first to get the treatment in a three-week dry-dock in May that updated the furniture, furnishings and added eight more suites, many with connecting doors so families and friends can stay close.

Where Regent Seven Sea Cruises® went for luxurious bling-bling with acres of marble and gold-leaf on Seven Seas Explorer®, and interior designer Adam Tihany gave Seabourn Encore a yacht-like look, Silversea has stuck with classic luxury for Silver Muse. The colour scheme is beige which looks most elegant. As Lefebvre noted, all that glitters isn't always luxury.

If you want golden bathrooms and glitzy lifts, choose another ship.

Service and space are everything, with 411 crew looking after just 596 passengers (to put that into perspective, some ships of a similar size squeeze in three times as many people but have the same number of crew). It means you never have to fend for yourself.

Waiters are on hand to carry your plate in the buffet restaurant and bar staff appear as if by magic the moment you take a seat by the pool. There are also butlers for all. Mine was Oscar and he was brilliant. Smartly attired, courteous and on hand to escort me from my suite (all accommodation on Silver Muse are suites, and all have a balcony) to evening functions and deliver a glass or two of bubbly to my room now and then (remember unlimited alcoholic and soft drinks, including Champagne, are included in Silversea's fares, as are gratuities). How I have managed without him since disembarking I do not know!

In a bold move, Silversea has dropped the main dining room on Silver Muse and instead given passengers a choice of eight places to eat, mimicking what happens in a hotel. It's what Norwegian Cruise Line introduced as Freestyle back in 2000 but no one else has successfully followed its lead. Fingers crossed it works for Silversea.

Silver Muse's restaurants serve everything from French cuisine to made-to-order pizzas by the pool and tapas-style light bites in Silver Note, a small venue where you can snack to the sounds of live blues and jazz.

I didn't manage to try them all but I gave it my best shot, eating in Kaiseki, a small and exclusive Japanese teppanyaki (so exclusive you have to pay to eat there), and Atlantide, a steakhouse-meets-seafood restaurant. My steak was from Argentina and tasty but modest compared to one from France that my companion ordered (I confess I got steak envy!). There was also veal from Italy, lamb from New Zealand and cod from Greenland.

As on other Silversea ships, La Terrazza is self-service at breakfast and lunch, and a full-service Italian restaurant in the evening, and there is a lunchtime grill by the pool (the burgers are delicious!) that becomes a cook-your-own Hot Rocks al-fresco diner in the evening.

Among new venues, Indochine serves an Asian menu that uses the herbs and spices Marco Polo brought back from his travels in India, China and Southeast Asia back in the 13th and 14th centuries, and the Arts Café is a trendy 'Starbucks at Sea' that serves 20 types of coffee, various other beverages, and also cakes, sandwiches, fruit and other bite-size snacks.

Happily for those who manage to munch their way around all the places to eat, there is a gym with running machines, cycles and various other instruments of torture where you can exercise off all the food. But maybe not until you have tried another of those burgers!

NCL BIDS FAREWELL TO TIPS

Norwegian Cruise Line has consigned tips to history. Starting 6th April 2017, gratuities have been included in all UK fares for all cruises.

It's great news for British cruisers, who are notoriously bad tippers. It's just not part of our culture – and we do like to be a bit contrary, never knowing how much to tip but objecting when cruise lines dictate an amount.

NCL said its fares will increase, but by as little as £20 in some cases. Given they now also include selected alcoholic and soft drinks, and also a bottle of water each day (and Haven passengers get some free speciality dining and Wi-Fi), there is every reason to rejoice.

Will other cruise lines follow suit? An executive from one once told me the British had no problem with gratuities. I suspect he will have to eat his words!

Known as French Polynesia's best-kept secret, this dreamy paradise has a warm and hospitable culture that is pristine and untouched by mass tourism. While its sister island, Tahaa, is internationally renowned for its vanilla, Raiatea is recognised as the region's cultural and historical centre – local folklore describes it as the birthplace of the Polynesian gods. In the Tahitian language 'ra'iatea' means 'bright sky', but for you it will mean bright sky, neon blue seas, awe-inspiring coral reefs and the romantic sound of the French language
- Mon 4 - Bora Bora, French Polynesia (overnight stay on board)
- Tue 5 Bora Bora is universally revered as the quintessential holiday destination for hopeless romantics. And why not? If its idyllic location isn't captivating enough, there's the sheer decadent beauty of the place. Silky stretches of deserted white sand. The rocky black peaks of Mount Otemanu and Mount Pahia. And all of it bounded by a necklace of coral gardens dotting a fish-filled lagoon. Maybe this explains why honeymooners and Hollywood types have been enchanted with this Polynesian pearl for decades

Easter Island

Welcome to the mysteries of Rapa Nui, the 'Navel of the World', more commonly known as Easter Island. Lying 2,294 miles (3,692km) west of the Chilean mainland and 1,200 miles (1,931km) from its nearest neighbour, Pitcairn Island, enigmatic Easter Island is the world's most remote inhabited island, famous for its strange monolithic statues.

The first settlers arrived on the island in the 4th century, presumably by accident, from Polynesia. They remained relatively isolated over a long period, living in a hierarchically arranged society that was governed by a king. Religious rites centred on the cult of ancestors represented by monolithic stone statuary, The Moai. When the island was discovered on Easter Sunday in 1722 by Jakob Roggeveen of the Dutch West India Company, the local society was already in decline due to violent social conflicts. Once divided into tribal territories, each sub-tribe, or family, occupied their own ceremonial site and erected a Moai. Nearly 900 were created at the great sculpture workshop in a quarry on the rocky slopes of the Ranu Raraku volcano. Roughly half of these intriguing statues are scattered across the island's volcanic landscape. Exactly how these huge, eerie-looking stone figures were transported miles from the quarry remains a mystery. Although the 2,000 islanders, living mostly at the island's lone town of Hanga Roa, are more Polynesian than Chilean, Easter Island is administered by Chile and is also known by the Spanish name of Isla de Pascua.

This vast outdoor museum, home to some of archaeology's most valuable treasures, is part of Rapa Nui National Park, inscribed as a World Heritage Site by UNESCO in 1995.

VOYAGE HIGHLIGHTS

OSAKA, JAPAN

Osaka is a stylish, modern metropolis which powers an economy that exceeds both Hong Kong's and Thailand's. Known for its modern architecture and tachinomiya – the city's signature stand-up bars and eateries, Osaka provides a vibrant and diverse experience. Highlights here range from Osaka Castle and the futuristic Floating Garden Observatory, to providing a base to explore the Kansai region: with Kyoto's World Heritage Sites, Nara's temple and Koya-san's within 90 minutes by train.

Osaka Castle, Japan

SEOUL, SOUTH KOREA

Offering a pleasant assault to the senses, Seoul provides a heady-mix of modern-progression and deeply traditional heritage. Pioneering modernism in the fashion, culinary and technology world offers a unique insight into what our future might look like; whilst traditionalism simply emanates from the streets and can be found in World Heritage-listed sites such as Jongmyo shrine, the alleys between the graceful hanok (traditional wooden homes) and the magnificent city walls.

Chocolate & Raspberry Tart

FOOD FOR THOUGHT:
CHOCOLATE &
RASPBERRY TART

PREP TIME - 30 MINS
PLUS CHILLING TIME
COOK TIME - 40 - 50 MINS
SERVES 8

Ingredients

FOR THE CHOCOLATE PASTRY

- 175g (6oz) plain flour
- 15g (1/2oz) cocoa powder
- 50g (2oz) caster sugar
- 100g (4oz) butter, diced
- 2 egg yolks

FOR THE FILLING

- 250ml (8fl oz) double cream
- 125ml (4fl oz) semi skimmed milk
- 150g (5oz) dark chocolate, broken into pieces
- 2 medium eggs
- 65g (2 1/2oz) caster sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 175g (6oz) fresh raspberries
- Extra raspberries and a little sifted cocoa powder to decorate

Method

1. To make the pastry, sift the flour and cocoa into a bowl. Add the sugar and rub the butter in with fingertips until it resembles fine crumbs.
2. Stir in the egg yolks and gradually bring the crumbs together to form a ball. Add a little cold water if needed.
3. Knead the pastry and roll out thinly on a lightly floured surface. Lift the pastry over a rolling pin and then drape into a 24cm x 2.5cm fluted fan tin. Ease the pastry into the flan tin, pressing into the flutes. Trim the pastry a little above the top of the tin with scissors to allow for shrinkage during baking. Prick the base with a fork and chill for 30 minutes.
4. Preheat the oven to 190°C/375°F/Gas Mark 5. Transfer onto a baking sheet. Line the pastry case with a large square of greaseproof paper and blind bake for 10 minutes. Carefully lift the paper and beans out of the pastry case and cook for another 5-10 minutes.
5. To make the filling - pour the cream and milk into a saucepan, bring to the boil, take the pan off the heat and add the chocolate. Leave for 5 minutes until melted. Whisk the eggs, sugar and vanilla together until smooth and gradually whisk in the warm chocolate milk.

6. Sprinkle the raspberries over the pastry case. Strain the warm chocolate cream into the tart case and cook in the oven reduced to 160°C/325°F/Gas Mark 3 for 25-30 minutes or until just set with a slight wobble in the centre. Leave to cool at room temperature for at 1-1 1/2 hours.
7. Remove the tin and transfer tart to a serving plate. Sprinkle a few extra raspberries over the top and decorate with a little sifted cocoa.
