INTRODUCING IONA

Choice, flexibility and the ability to create your own on board experiences lie at the heart of Iona, giving you the chance to rest and play your way. She has been designed by the world's leading design and guest experience teams to make sure you have a wealth of dining, entertainment, socialising and relaxation options to make your holiday extra special. And rest assured, the P&O Cruises DNA will still shine through. You'll be treated to the best British hospitality and standards of service that you know and love.

CONSERVATORY MINI-SUITES

Bring the outdoors in with a personal and versatile conservatory-style room that forms an extension to the suite. This space, which includes stylish L-shaped seating, can be closed off or left open according to the time of day or mood. In the morning keep it closed to enjoy a quiet coffee overlooking the ocean. By day it opens out fully onto the balcony. With a direct connection to the sea, the space is cool and shaded, perfect for relaxing. In the evening, it transforms into a spacious environment for private celebrations and socialising over pre-dinner drinks with friends and family.

THE KEEL AND COW

The Keel and Cow is an unpretentious gastropub, where food and drink have been crafted into something truly special. It offers a quick and convenient breakfast for those going ashore, and lunchtimes bring top-quality, authentic gastropub fare to the fore. At night, guests can gather with friends to enjoy hearty dishes or select from a range of steaks from the dry-ageing fridge. The Keel and Cow is the perfect place to bring friends and family together to enjoy delicious food, real hand-pumped ales and a great selection of craft ales in a relaxed, informal environment.

THE GRAND ATRIUM

The Grand Atrium is the beating heart of Iona; a lively signature space that encapsulates the spirit of the ship. The architecturally impressive space sits on decks 6, 7 and 8 and boasts a contemporary design that brings in uninterrupted panoramic sea views and natural light. By day, it's a place to meet, dine, relax, be entertained or simply watch the world go by; by night, it's an immersive destination venue, balancing intimate spaces with larger social areas. The space seamlessly transitions between day and night through lighting and sound.

A LIFELONG ROMANCE WITH CUNARD...

There is something inherently romantic about cruising. In light of the exclusive opportunity to stay on board the Queen Elizabeth 2 Hotel overleaf, our very own ROL Cruise Account Manager, Poppy Ellis, wanted to share a story with you. Her parents, Barbara and John, met on the Queen Elizabeth 2 back in 1969 during her maiden voyage. Here's Barbara's story...

"I was invited to go down to Southampton to the open day of the QE2 before her maiden voyage; it was a lovely new modern ship in those days I was extremely excited. I met up with all the shop girls from previous voyages of the Queen Mary with whom I had worked with. I asked them previously if there were any vacancies on board this new ship, and if any came up, could they please let me know. Low and behold, later that evening I received a phone call and was told that one of the girls was leaving to get married - so I applied to the company, was accepted and asked to report to sail on QE2's maiden voyage working in the gift shop on the main shopping deck.

Sailing day arrived on 2nd May 1969, the maiden voyage of the QE2 - there were plenty of people to see the ship sail from Southampton waving flags and cheering as we left the pier, it was a very auspicious occasion. After two hours the shops were opened. I was in the Gift Shop which sold nearly everything with the QE2 brand on - from sailor dolls to ashtrays.

The company I worked for would not allow the shop girls leave back to England - so most of our trips were without a break whilst all other crew seemed to have leave to go back to England. The Shop Steward who arranged leave for the shop girls was a gentleman named John Cullen. I approached him and asked him about leave and his response was that it wasn't his business, as we worked for another company.

When I heard this statement, I was really cross and asked him why he couldn't help us shop girls. He took pity on us and said he would try.

I shared a cabin with another shop girl and we were invited to quite a few parties. The next evening was a St. Patrick's Night party held in the crew mess and John was there. As we got chatting he told me that he had walked passed my shop several times - I hadn't seen him - we enjoyed the party and he asked me out in New York to the cinema and a nice restaurant. He spoke up for the shop girls, my persistence worked and he managed to get us flights so we could have some time at home.

John worked as a first class waiter in one of the top restaurants on board, and served some famous people, including Morecambe and Wise, Paul Newman and Joanne Woodward, Gracie Fields, Peter Sellers and many more. When he finished in the restaurant he brought the menu down for me to choose whatever I liked. Then, once I'd chosen, he brought it down on a fancy tray with silver cutlery - that was the beginning of a lifelong romance.

After two years I left the sea and married John in 1973 - we had three children Sean, Stephen and Poppy. We moved to Spain in 2004. John died in July 2006 after 33 years of marriage, but I have the most amazing, lovely happy memories."

Barbara, John and friend on the QE2 deck

John with Eric Morecambe

SMALL SHIPS

Fred. Olsen Cruise Lines are renowned for their small, friendly fleet of ships, with a crew that are ready to welcome you on board for a cruise that you will never forget. They believe it is the intimate atmosphere, amongst like-minded travellers, and the impeccable service of a friendly crew (that become your family-away-from-home) that make the difference. From remembering your favourite beverage, and serving it with a smile exactly how you like it, to asking how your day ashore was after you've explored a new and exciting place – it's the personal service that make Fred. Olsen special. Their ships are smaller, carrying hundreds, not thousands of guests, so can dock in ports of call larger vessels simply cannot reach. Plus, with fewer people on board, you don't have to compete for a picture with that incredible sight you've visited, making for a much more authentic experience.

DISCOVER CANADA: The Great White North

There's a certain magic to experience on a cruise to Canada. The west is a green dream, with bears, moose, elk and caribou found beneath armies of trees, pausing to take a sip from the reflective glacier-fed lakes. To the east, New England retains much of its olde-worlde appeal since the early days of the French settlers - a certain 'je ne sais quoi' if you will. Canadians may very well have a strong case when arguing this is the true heart of North America.

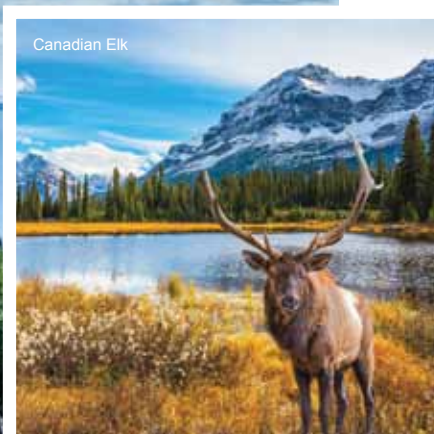

Vancouver, Canada

Salmon seafood

Canadian Elk

Grizzly bear

For all its monumental lure, the USA can only sit back and admire the raw beauty of its neighbour Canada. Every experience is a wholesome reward; be it from the annual Calgary Stampede, where one can channel their inner John Wayne; the Rocky Mountaineer, which glides majestically through the delicate photogenic scenery of British Columbia; or navigating the Eastern Seaboard during the fall, when the region is at its warmest and the palette of colours at its most vibrant.

Somewhat unlike the USA, Canada is proud of its European heritage, particularly notable in the east. Sailing the Gulf of St. Lawrence on your Canadian cruise around the mainland coastlines, hamlets and islands of Canada's Eastern Seaboard, you'll discover a rich history and wealth of experiences all played out before a magnificent backdrop. Green, thickly forested slopes sit beneath rocky peaks that cascade steeply to the sea, where the waters are rich with plankton and krill - this, in turn, attracts an abundance of Crustacea, fish and whales. It was intrepid fishermen from Europe, notably Portugal, Spain, England and France, who initially harvested these riches. The French were the first to settle the area, founding Acadie or Acadia, followed by the British who established New Scotland, now Nova Scotia. The subsequent battles for supremacy have left place names, customs and languages that betray the often bloody history of the region. Cultural differences are now however largely forgotten and combine to add to the unique feel of the region.

Leaving the Gulf of St. Lawrence, the province of Nova Scotia offers a return to the open sea and the stunning harbours of a coast where the scenery and wildlife offer a compelling distraction, while the small havens visited offer the freshest, tastiest seafood.

Heading west, the population dissipates, paving the way for a wealth of natural wonders, drizzled liberally across the landscape like maple syrup. Experiences here are likely to be equally as sweet too, with skiing in snow-white Whistler, the chic, multicultural confines of Vancouver and, of course, the heart-stopping grandeur of the Rockies. You may even spot the odd brown bear while you're on your cruise's shore excursions. Every aspect and activity will leave you in awe, and with picture-perfect mementoes around every corner, it'd be a crime to forget the camera!

WILDLIFE OF ANTARCTICA

MEET THE PENGUINS

Penguins are the most common birds in the Antarctic. Living in colonies with populations larger than some cities, and surviving in the harshest of conditions, it is no wonder that penguins are seen as the emblem of the Great White Continent. However, of the 17 different species of penguin, only two (Emperor and Adélie) make the Antarctic continent their true home, although others (Chinstrap, Gentoo and Macaroni) breed on the northern tip of the Antarctic Peninsula, where conditions are less harsh.

WONDERFUL WHALES

A favourite among Antarctica cruise-goers, whales are beautiful, enigmatic and fascinating creatures. Highly intelligent with complex social lives, Antarctic whales capture the imagination of all who witness the spectacle. Few sights on Earth can beat seeing a pod of orcas or a Humpback breaching the surface of the water. Almost 75% of the world's orcas live in Antarctica, which is truly a paradise for whales.

ANTARCTICA'S SIX SEALS

One of the joys of an Antarctica cruise is being able to observe seals up close. Whilst only six of the 35 species of seal live in Antarctica, Antarctic Fur Seals, Leopard Seals, Ross Seals, Crabeater Seals, Elephant Seals and Weddell Seals, these six species actually make up the vast majority of all seals on Earth.

JENNIE BOND'S ADVENTURE TO THE GREAT WHITE CONTINENT

ROL Cruise Ambassador, Journalist & TV Presenter, Jennie Bond recently embarked on the voyage of a lifetime, courtesy of the tailor-made experts at ROL Cruise. Here, she tells us all about her Antarctica experience with Hurtigruten...

“Nothing will compare with that first morning when I pulled back the curtain and, through the porthole, saw a huge iceberg just yards away, framed by a background of virgin white mountains against a clear blue sky... We had reached the South Shetland Island, where the icebergs were studded with hues of turquoise and green. Occasionally there were seals resting on top, sunbathing on the ice as if it were the warmest sand.”

YOUR EXPEDITION VOYAGE HIGHLIGHTS

★ SOLAR ECLIPSE EXPERIENCE ★

On 14th December 2020, a total solar eclipse will be visible over Chile and Argentina. You too can be there to experience this spectacle of 'totality' from the spacious teak decks of Holland America Line's Westerdam, a total Solar Eclipse occurs only every one to two years, and to witness it is without doubt a rare occurrence. The eclipse we hope you'll see is a total Solar Eclipse, which is only visible from a small area on Earth. Those who are able to see the total eclipse are in the centre of the moon's shadow when it hits Earth. A total Solar Eclipse is in itself special, but to possibly experience it is truly a once-in-a-lifetime event.

★ CHILEAN FJORDS ★

Lined with rugged mountains and glacier-covered valleys, the Chilean Fjords are unlike any other fjord system in the world. Home to many of Chile's national parks, early Spanish explorers came here in search of the mythical City of the Caesars, believed to be rich in gold and diamonds. Riches to be found today are the Fjords' dramatic landscape and the unusual wildlife of Patagonia. Whales, dolphins and elephant seals are common sights when traversing these stunning fjords, a must on any bucket list.

★ FALKLAND ISLANDS ★

Imagine a place that is so far off-the-beaten-track you have miles of stunning landscape, beaches and magnificent bird life all to yourself – that's what you can expect as you arrive in Stanley. As one of the greatest wilderness destinations in the world, the Falkland Islands are the ultimate birding experiences and are home to majestic King, feisty Rockhopper, raucous Gentoo and shy Magellanic penguins as well as over 70% of the world's Black-browed albatross!

GUNS & ROSES

I'm still trying to imagine what paprika in brandy – apparently a speciality in Hungary – would taste like when Gabor, my guide on a tour to the Hungarian puszta, or prairie, announces, "We give it to visitors we don't like so they don't come back".

That roughly sums up what I was imagining so I look around hastily. No sign of any superfiery firewater doing the rounds in the coach. Phew. Clearly Gabor is satisfied we have all been paying attention during this excursion to see whip-cracking cowboys showing off their horse-riding skills.

Of course we have. It's been an excellent day out watching them gallop their steeds while carrying full pint glasses, whip bottles off a podium and persuade their horses to lie down. One even drove 10 horses at speed around the ring while standing on the backs of the last two.

The tour is one of several great trips offered on the Lower Danube cruise I'm doing with Emerald Waterways that is taking us from Romania to Hungary by way of Bulgaria, Serbia and Croatia.

It's been a great trip, with war, invasion, Greeks, Romans, Ottoman Turks and Russians all playing their part and leaving their mark in the form of coffee, forts and roses. Roses? They were introduced into Bulgaria by Alexander the Great and are such big business these days that the country calls itself the Land of Roses due to all the oil it produces from the petals, which are also used in jam, jelly, Turkish delight and schnapps. The locals even use them on rashes and to get rid of headaches.

The cruise started with a night in a hotel in Bucharest and a tour of the Palace of the Parliament built by former Romanian dictator Nicolae Ceausescu - a massive building (the second largest administrative building in the world) and lavishly over-the-top with marble floors, grand chandeliers and fine silk panels. Ironically, before Ceausescu could move in, the Soviet Union collapsed, he and his wife were arrested, tried for crimes against the country and executed.

That afternoon we transferred to the port of Giurgiu, to embark Emerald Sun, a superb river ship with cabins and suites with balconies and panoramic windows, and a glass-enclosed swimming pool that was so lovely I took up residence there most of the time while we were sailing.

From Giurgiu we sailed to Rousse and Vidin in Bulgaria, Gobulac and Belgrade in Serbia, Vukovar in Croatia, and Kalocsa in Hungary before disembarking in Budapest. We saw spectacular rock formations in Belogradchik, had a day to explore buzzing Belgrade, which was packed with people, bars and restaurants, and transited the Iron Gates Gorge, a valley that narrows to less than 500 feet at one point.

The gorge is picturesque but the main attraction is a huge rock statue of King Decebalus, the erstwhile ruler of Dacia, in present-day Romania, who tried to fend off a Roman invasion. He failed but is still a hero to the Romanians.

Emerald Waterways is a relatively new river cruise line but its growth has been meteoric, expanding from one ship cruising the Rhine and Danube in 2014 to seven vessels that also cruise the Rhône in France and the Douro in Portugal. This summer it will grow again as the new Emerald Harmony enters service with one-week cruises on the Mekong River in Vietnam and Cambodia.

It's a really exciting itinerary, visiting local markets, riding on tuk-tuks and being blessed by Buddhist monks. The cruises, between Ho Chi Minh City and Siem Reap, are available either with extra time in both cities with excursions to the temples of Angkor Wat and the Cù Chi Tunnels where Viet Cong fighters lived during the Vietnam War, or longer tours of Vietnam that visit Hanoi, Hue and Hoi An. Most Mekong cruises have been snapped up for this year but 2020 and 2021 dates are already on sale. You'll find more about them elsewhere in this issue of Blue Horizons.

But back to the Lower Danube. From Rousse, we went to Veliko Tarnovo, the capital of Bulgaria before the Ottomans invaded in the 1300s. They stayed almost 500 years, spreading their empire across the Balkans before being defeated at the gates of Vienna in 1683.

During their tenure, the Turks turned churches into mosques, destroyed castles and palaces, and generally made themselves very unpopular but one good thing did come out of their occupation, according to Inga, our guide in Croatia. When they fled, they left their coffee behind. And so the coffee-house culture in what was to become the Austro-Hungarian empire was born.

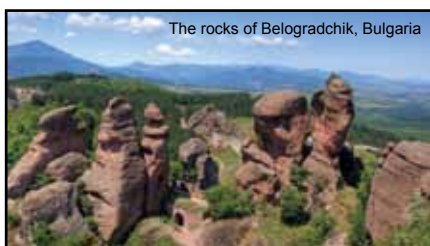

From Vukovar, we went to Osijek, a city famous locally for opening the first brewery in Croatia after the Ottomans were kicked out in the late 1600s and a large fort built by the Austrian Empire to make sure they didn't return.

The tour was good but the best bit was yet to come - a home-hosted lunch in the nearby village of Aljimas. Which is how I ended up tucking into Croatian fasirke, a kind of meat pattie served with rice, and proja, a muffin-like dessert made with cornflower, pears and apricots, with bed-and-breakfast owner Branka, who talked frankly about life in Croatia now and during the war with Serbia as Yugoslavia collapsed.

It was all so interesting that I quite forgot to stop eating. At least that's my excuse for having that third fasirke!

And, of course, complimentary wine, beer and soft drinks are available with lunch and dinner**.

Enjoy a transcontinental journey like no other, on board the Indian Pacific train in the luxury of a Gold Cabin. From the beautifully barren expanse of the Nullarbor Plain to the spectacular heights of the majestic Blue Mountains, this truly is a journey of contrasts. Allow yourself to become rich with authentic Australian experiences and pass through ghost towns and lush vineyards as you journey through the heart of Australia. This astonishing journey links the coasts of the Pacific Ocean with the Indian Ocean in a remarkable 4,352 kilometre journey.

Have the opportunity to unwind and mingle with like-minded travellers in the Outback Explorer Lounge – the perfect place to enjoy a wide range of all-inclusive refreshments as you catch glimpses of passing wildlife through wide picture windows. You will be struck by the ornate styling of the Queen Adelaide Restaurant, reminiscent of old world rail travel. Dynamic menus showcase the finest regional flavours available – from Top End barramundi, locally produced beef and lamb and native Australian fare including wild rosella flower, there is plenty to savour.

- 2tbsp maple syrup
- 1tbsp Worcester sauce
- 250ml chicken stock
- 250ml apple juice

For the mash:

- 500g potatoes
- 5 garlic cloves, peeled
- 25g butter
- 2tbsp milk
- a few small sage leaves, to garnish (optional)

Method

1. Preheat the oven to 160C/310F/ Gas 3. Pour half the cider into a roasting tin and add the cinnamon, allspice berries and cloves, sage sprigs and pork belly minus the skin. Cover the pan tightly with foil and roast for 3 hours until very tender. Remove from the oven and pour all the pan juices into a bowl, set aside and allow liquid and meat to cool. Place the cooked pork on a shallow tray and place a second tray on top. Place a heavy weight on the top tray to press the pork as it cools.

2. Combine the remaining cider, tomato ketchup, maple syrup, Worcester sauce and some salt in a small saucepan and bring to the boil. Boil for 5 minutes until thick and syrup-like. Leave to cool and chill until required.
3. The next day, preheat the oven to 200C/400F/ Gas 6. Make the crackling. Thoroughly dry pork skin with a cloth and cut into 0.5cm strips. Place on a wire rack set in a roasting tin, sprinkle with salt and roast for about 40 minutes, turning halfway through until really crispy and golden. Let cool.
4. Make the mash. Cook the potatoes and garlic together in a pan of boiling water for 15 minutes until very tender. Drain well and pass the garlic and potatoes through a potato ricer back into the pan. Beat in the butter, milk, salt and pepper and keep warm.
5. Remove the pork from the fridge and cut into 24 slices or bite-size cubes; toss with the tomato glaze mixture until evenly coated. Place in a roasting tin lined with baking paper and roast at 200C/400F/Gas 6 for about 30-40 minutes until crisp and golden.
6. Scrape the fat from the top of the pork juices and place in a saucepan with the stock and apple juice and season with salt and pepper. Bring to the boil and simmer until reduced to about 250ml. Keep warm.
7. To serve, spoon a little mash onto each warm plate, top each one with a couple of pork slices and some crackling. Pour over the gravy and garnish with sage leaves, if desired.
